Crashed to Bottom Of City Creek Canyon in Storm

Injuries suffered when his automobile hurtled over a 150-foot embankment into City Creek canyon during a blinding snowstorm proved fatal early Monday to a 33-year-old Salt Lake physician.
The victim was Dr. Barton H. Wherritt of 1107 East South Temple street, member of the Inter-Mountain clinic and a recognized specialist in internal medicine.
His death brought Utah's 1940 motor vehicle fatality toll to 19, compared with 15 killed during the corresponding period of 1939. It was the third fatality of the year in Salt Lake City, compared with five killed to February 6, 1939.
Dr. Wherritt died Monday at 2:50 a. m., less than two hours after the machine he was driving north on Bonneville boulevard, seven-tenths of a mile north of the state capitol, left the highway. Plunging, sliding and overturning several times, the machine followed a zig-zag course to the bottom of City Creek canyon and came to rest on its right side.
